LG launches portable speakers

For creating the perfect music environment for all your moods

LG's latest portable X Boom Cube, OM4560, comes with a powerful amplifier that includes a 2500W PMPO output. It encompasses both wired and wireless options for powerful sound expandability, thus aiding users to connect two units to play music together. Using LG Music Flow app, they can centrally manage their entire music library and control all Music Flow units in their homes.

Sound Sync feature allows users to link their LG audio product with a compatible LG HDTV wirelessly via Bluetooth, reducing the cable clutter. The speakers also connect with a DTH set-up box through an auxiliary cable. Auto DJ, Bass Blast, Gesture Control and Auto Music are some more features of the product.

Selfie stick by Portronics

For all selfie lovers

The mini selfie stick requires no batteries and works everywhere. It has a simple wire connection that plugs into your smartphone's headphone jack to replicate the volume control shutter-release feature on both iOS and Android devices. Its solid grip feature makes it easy and comfortable to hold and with a sprung phone bracket, it can accommodate any mobile phone that measures between 5cm and 8.5cm in width; even the heaviest of these will be held firmly in place by its strong grip. The bracket is fully adjustable and can rotate a full 360° and tilt up to 180°. For watching videos, the stick can be used as a stand and it can be adjusted at any angle. It comes in black, blue and orange colours.
